Harvest
Harvest 2019.

Bottling
The wine was beginning of August 2020.

Vinification | Aging
After arriving at the winery, spontaneous fermentation allowed for a long and delicate maceration of about 20 days; subsequently, the wine was aged in French oak barriques.

Sensory Information

Color
Modestly intense ruby red.

Olfactory notes
The bouquet is diverse and complex, with aromas of small wild berries, particularly blackberry, hints of aromatic herbs, and spicy undertones.

Taste Notes
Broad and full-bodied, with a balanced and elegant tannin characteristic of Collio's Merlot. The discreetly persistent finish imparts pleasant hints of red fruits to the palate and a slight balsamic note.

Grape Variety
"Perilla," whose name comes from a local place name, is obtained through a manual selection of Merlot grapes from various exposures to ensure the harvest of optimally matured grapes, aiming to create a wine with beautiful complexities.

It is a soft and intense red that effectively expresses the freshness of the nights on the hills of Collio.
